WATCH: Commandment 5

READ: Ephesians 6:1-3; Hebrews 4:13

DO: Honor. Respect. Obey. These are some words God uses when explaining how children should relate to their parents. Can you say those three words accurately describe your relationship with your parents? Are you struggling to honor, respect, and obey your parents even in the midst of disagreements? God made a pretty big deal about children honoring their parents, after all it was one of the Ten Commandments. Share the ways you struggle to honor, respect, and obey your parents with an accountability partner. Next, have your accountability partner pray for you to honor your parents the way God calls you to. Lastly, ask your accountability partner to ask you from time to time how your relationship with your parents is going. God desires each of us to have a healthy and vibrant relationship with our parents, even if we don't see eye-to-eye with them.
